Updated June 2009

The Alberta Forest Products Association (AFPA), established in 1942, is a private, non-profit industry association that represents the interests of the forest products industry operating in the province. Our members produce pulp, newsprint, lumber, panelboard and other manufactured products from Alberta's forests.

The AFPA is governed by a Board of Directors committed to industrial growth, responsible environmental standards and sustainable forest management practices.

This commitment is best expressed through our FORESTCARE Program, and through our member's efforts to achieve internationally-recognized, third-party audited sustainable forest management certification. Certification ensures that all forest management practices undertaken by our member companies – from planning to harvest to regeneration and beyond – are open to scrutiny.

The Alberta Forest Products Association is responsible for lumber grading, coordinating industry safety activities, government relations, industry promotion and education, and liaison with other associations.

On lumber grading, AFPA inspectors ensure members meet mandatory grade marking standards set by the National Lumber Grades Authority. These standards are in compliance with Canadian, American and other countries' regulations. These include the American Lumber Standards, Canadian Lumber Standards Accreditation Board, the United Kingdom BS4978: 1988 and Japanese Agricultural Standards (JAS).

Forestry is Alberta's third largest industrial sector and second largest manufacturing export sector. We are committed to sustainable forest management, environmental sustainability and strong and healthy communities.

A principal responsibility of Alberta's forest products industry is ensuring the continual growth and re-growth of healthy forests. We are dedicated to the stewardship and sustainable development of the forest—not only in terms of timber production, but for all of the other multiple uses and values inherent in forested ecosystems.

To make certain Alberta's forests are perpetuated for future generations, the industry has implemented the most stringent reforestation programs in Canada.

Reforestation is a fundamental part of our commitment to responsible forest management, and is required by provincial law. More than 82 million seedling trees are planted each year in Alberta. On average, for every tree that is harvested two grow back in its place. In addition, we are constantly researching new technologies and applications to adapt our practices to new and evolving theories of forest ecosystem management. In essence, we consider watershed protection, recreation use, wildlife habitat and other values critical to good forest management.

Our member companies also encourage and support comprehensive public involvement in, and ongoing research and monitoring of, forest management practices in Alberta.

Alberta's forest industry is very entrepreneurial with efficient and environmentally friendly operations designed to foster a healthy forest.
